Hey Robert,

We saw Lisa at the Clean Cars event at the White House this morning and she confirmed that she would do the EGA event. Can I get an official confirmation from you? We want to send out invites today.

Thanks so much!

Anna

NRDC's legislative director, Karen Wayland, is leaving NRDC to join Speaker Pelosi's office. NRDC President Frances Beinecke is pitching (b) (6) on becoming some sort of super-legislative director for NRDC. He'd be in the organization's senior leadership. Frances is putting together a very appealing package, and she is trying to get a commitment to stay out of Michael. So now definitely would be the time to contact Michael if you're interested. He might no longer be available a week from now.

Rob,

Attached is a draft news release from our Regional office in Boston (Region 1).

Basically, it announces a $300,000 settlement between EPA/DoJ and two companies that renovated an 1800s-era commercial building in New Haven in the year 2002.

It's a standard enforcement action, but because of the size of the fine, we wanted to make you aware. The earliest we think the case may be lodged by DoJ is later this week.

FYI only.

Thanks - Mike

BlackBerry Internet Service instructions for configuring an email account

donotreply to: Richard Windsor

01/27/2009 09:26 AM

Your attempt to configure the BlackBerry Internet Service to deliver mail to your BlackBerry device from this email account was unsuccessful. This email provides instructions to help with the email account set up.

You submitted the following information:

Account Type: POP3/IMAP

Email Address: windsor.richard@epa.gov

User Name: richard windsor

Password:  (For security the password is not displayed.)

Mail Server: dcarmail6

Please confirm the information. Refer to the instructions below for help in determining the correct information. After confirming the information, log in to the BlackBerry Internet Service site and try again.

POP & IMAP Accounts

Internet Service Provider email accounts are commonly either POP or IMAP accounts. You need the following information:

Note: You can find out this information from either your desktop email application or your Internet Service Provider:

- Email Address: Your email address for example, user@ISPname.com
- Server: The name of the Mail Server for example, mail.ISPname.com
- User Name: The portion of the email address before the "@" symbol for example, patrickmoser in the address patrickmoser@ISPname.com
- Password: The password for your account

The BlackBerry Internet Service site provides a utility you can download to help set-up your email account. This small application searches your computer for configured email accounts and provides BlackBerry Internet Service with these settings. To download this application:

- From your desktop browser, log in to the BlackBerry Internet Service account. Refer to the documentation provided by your Wireless Service Provider for the web URL.
- On the Email Accounts page, select Add Account.
- When prompted, type your email address and password. Click Next.
- Select I use Microsoft® Outlook™ or Outlook Express™. Click Next.
- Click Download and follow the on-screen instructions.

If you are still having difficulties adding your email account, visit the online help on the BlackBerry Internet Service site.

Thank you.

Dear Administrator Jackson--

Congratulations on becoming the new EPA Administrator. It is indeed a wonderful new era for the country, and perhaps no more so than in the area of environmental protection and conservation.

As the attached documents indicate, I have expressed interest in the EPA Region 2 RA's position, and would very much like to meet with you to discuss my interest in and qualifications for the position. I will be in Washington Wednesday through Friday of this week, and could do so any time on Thursday or Friday morning.

Thank you and I hope to hear from you today or tomorrow. I can be reached at the e-mail address and telephone number set forth below.

I forgot to mention this case at the meeting this morning. GE had challenged constitutionality of Superfund's section 106 program. The court rejected the challenge. (Full disclosure: I wrote an amicus brief for environmental groups in this case.)

GE loses to EPA in ruling on river dredging

Staff and wire report

Environmentalists are heralding a federal court decision rejecting General Electric Co.'s challenge of a federal Superfund law requiring it to clean up polluted sites, including a much-anticipated one along the Hudson River.

"It's a big victory for environmental law because it goes a long way toward institutionalizing these kind of cleanups," said Robert Goldstein, general counsel for Riverkeeper, a Tarrytown-based environmental group. "It's a total victory for everyone in the country because there is a Superfund or potential Superfund site all over, especially in the New York area."

GE, the world's biggest maker of power-generation equipment, lost the nine-year court battle over the Environmental Protection Agency law yesterday when U.S. District Judge John Bates in Washington rejected the company's argument that the agency violated its due process rights under the U.S. Constitution in the way it implemented the statute.

"The court rejects GE's novel, but considerable challenge," Bates said in his order.

GE was ordered in 2002 to dredge pollutants, including PCBs, or polychlorinated biphenyls, that its plants in Hudson Falls and Fort Edward dumped into the river - a directive that was delayed because of disagreements over how the cleanup should take place. The stretch of river affected runs from Fort Edward south to Troy.

The company agreed in October 2005 to remove the PCBs along the 40-mile stretch of the river in upstate New York near Albany, even as it challenged the law in court. Dredging operations are expected to start in May and last six years. The EPA estimates the entire cleanup will cost as much as $750 million. GE spokesman Peter O'Toole said the Fairfield, Conn.-based company is reviewing the opinion.

"We're still reviewing the decision and will consider all our options, including the right to appeal as we review the complex decision," O'Toole said.

EPA spokeswoman Elizabeth Totman referred calls to Justice Department spokesman Andrew Ames, who said GE could appeal to the Circuit Court in Washington. He declined to comment on the judge's ruling.

"The opinion speaks for itself," Ames said.

PCB is an industrial compound that resists chemical and biological breakdown, and is considered a likely human carcinogen. Before being banned in 1977, PCB was commonly used in fluids in transformers and electrical equipment, as well as an additive in adhesives, plastic and paint.

The EPA said GE discharged as much as 1.3 million pounds of PCBs into the Hudson River from 1947 to 1977.

"The reality is the PCBs that are in the river eventually are consumed or taken in by humans," Goldstein said. "These are chemicals that don't go away that easily and they spread around."

As part of the PCB cleanup, sediments will be removed by dredges and transported by barge to nearby processing facilities now nearing completion. They will then be shipped by rail for disposal at a facility in Andrews, Texas, owned by Waste Control Specialists LLC.

The agency also announced that GE agreed to pay an additional $7 million to protect the water supplies of Waterford, Halfmoon and Stillwater, N.Y., during dredging.

The agreement is considered a major milestone for the community activists who played a part in lobbying for the measure, and whose voices were ultimately heard in this case, said Goldstein, who served on the EPA's Community Advisory Group.

"It demonstrates that the community has an impact on the cleanup," he said. "I've been participating as a member of this community advisory group for four years. We raise issues to General Electric and to the EPA and sometimes we're listened to and sometimes we're ignored. More often we're ignored."

Lawrence Levine, an attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council, which filed friend-of-the- court briefs in the case, said the decision is a "significant victory for the environment and public health."

"It preserves EPA's ability to direct polluters to immediately clean up hazardous waste sites they're responsible for," Levine said. "That carries out the will of Congress when it passed the Superfund law."

Just to clarify, legal jargon in a legal letter is perfect. I want to avoid legal hargon in the press statement that we prepare in advance of the questions we will get.

David - would you suggest giving the letter and statement to a few key outlets or doind a release?

Finally, Eric is confirming with Justina Fugh that my conflict of interest paperwork is in order before I decide this matter. We will get that answer such that this matter can proceed in a timely manner.

NJ has a long history of being progressive on mercury control, starting with Scot Wiener (MSW incineration) and continuing to today. Each Commissioner since Scott has advanced Hg control in NJ in different ways. When LPJ was Commissioner, the new area of regulation concerned dental amalgam discharge to sewers by dentists (Mary Jo Aiello lead I think). LPJ also testified before a Senate Committee on NJ's rules with respect to coal fired power plants (which were adopted by Brad Campbell). NJ's objection to EPA hg trading rules preceded LPJ, with LPJ continuing to support that objection which continues through the NJ AG's office. NJ is the lead state on the challenge to EPA's CAMR (Clean Air Mercury Rule).

Test results on 3 NJ coal fired electric generating units (EGUs) which have installed carbon injection indicate over 90% Hg capture. Another 4 EGUs were found to catch over 90% without any carbon injection, because their existing low NOx burners produced sufficient carbon to catch the mercury in the existing fabric filter (baghouse) particulate controls.

It is clear that performance standards for Hg are reasonable for coal fired power plants and that the mercury trading rules of the Bush Administration were not technically or economically appropriate, in addition to being a violation of the Clean Air Act.

WOS

cc Sunila - correct? did I miss anything major on Hg while LPJ was commissioner?

Subject: Re: letter for SG on mercury

Thx Lisa.

Just to clarify, legal jargon in a legal letter is perfect. I want to avoid legal hargon in the press statement that we prepare in advance of the questions we will get.

David - would you suggest giving the letter and statement to a few key outlets or doind a release?

Finally, Eric is confirming with Justina Fugh that my conflict of interest paperwork is in order before I decide this matter. We will get that answer such that this matter can proceed in a timely manner.

Lisa,

OGC has approved the attached letter to the SG's office asking them to withdraw the mercury cert. petition.

I'm well aware of all the legalese in the letter -- but the letter is addressed to lawyers, so I thought it might be acceptable this time....

Let me know your reactions. The letter needs to go out by tomorrow.

Thanks.

Lisa

Hey Robert,

We saw Lisa at the Clean Cars event at the White House this morning and she confirmed that she would do the EGA event. Can I get an official confirmation from you? We want to send out invites today.

Thanks so much!

The gist of this is that Senator Stabenow (D-MI) wants you to know that she recommends (b) (6) for the position of Assistant Administrator for Water. I will tell Stabenow's office that you have received and are aware of the recommendation, and that you very much appreciate her reaching out to you on this.

David,

Hi there. Chris Adamo said you were the right person to contact for the Senator's personnel recommendations. He also mentioned that we have good folks in place over there. So, with that kind of reputation, I look forward to working with you in the new year. We certainly have a lot to do to get this country back on track.

On behalf of the Senator, I wanted to send you a letter of recommendation for (b) (6) for Assistant Administrator for the Office of Water. (b) (6) (b) (6) He not only has experience in coalition-building across various states, but he is well aware of the water issues facing the nation. Anything we can do to provide more information, answer questions, etc. we are happy to do so.

Thanks David and pls send the Senator's best to Ms. Jackson.

The gist of this is that Senator Stabenow (D-MI) wants you to know that she recommends (b) (6)
(b) (6) for the position of Assistant Administrator for Water. I will tell Stabenow's office that you have received and are aware of the recommendation, and that you very much appreciate her reaching out to you on this.

David,

Hi there. Chris Adamo said you were the right person to contact for the Senator's personnel recommendations. He also mentioned that we have good folks in place over there. So, with that kind of reputation, I look forward to working with you in the new year. We certainly have a lot to do to get this country back on track.

On behalf of the Senator, I wanted to send you a letter of recommendation for (b) (6) for Assistant Administrator for the Office of Water. (b) (6)
He not only has experience in coalition-building across various states, but he is well aware of the water issues facing the nation. Anything we can do to provide more information, answer questions, etc.
we are happy to do so.

Thanks David and pls send the Senator's best to Ms. Jackson.

I would like someone to be Deputy Press for Specialty Media -- focused full-time on communicating to AA, Latino, Asian, women press, etc. Had one person in mind (Latina) but she's trying to go to State or back to the Hill. Perhaps one of the WH people could fit this bill.

Should I change my pace recognizing the impending WH names?

You are solid. They have sent over resumes but not for communications (mostly advance and scheduling). But they may and the right way to do the politics is to see if any of the folks they send look good for some of the lower level positions.

Please see below. (b) (6) is right about the definition of "particular matter" in the President's executive order on ethics. If that executive order is the document that decides whether a potential appointee has a problem, then (b) (6) should not have a problem.

You're right. It's not even a close call.

Subject: Lobbying restrictions

This is interesting--the EO prohibition is as follows:

3. Revolving Door Ban Lobbyists Entering Government. If I was a registered lobbyist within the 2 years before the date of my appointment, in addition to abiding by the limitations of paragraph 2, I will not for a period of 2 years after the date of my appointment:

(a) participate in any particular matter on which I lobbied within the 2 years before the date of my appointment;

BUT I AM NOT at all sure that global warming legislation falls within the definition of a "particular matter":

Particular matter. The term particular matter encompasses only matters that involve deliberation, decision, or action that is focused upon the interests of specific persons, or a discrete and identifiable class of persons. Such a matter is covered by this subpart even if it does not involve formal parties and may include governmental action such as legislation or policy-making that is narrowly focused on the interests of such a discrete and identifiable class of persons. The term particular matter, however, does not extend to the consideration or adoption of broad policy options that are directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons. The particular matters covered by this subpart include a judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other determination, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation or arrest.

Example 1: The Internal Revenue Service's amendment of its regulations to change the manner in which depreciation is calculated is not a particular matter, nor is the Social Security Administration's consideration of changes to its appeal procedures for disability claimants.

Example 2: Consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of regulations establishing safety standards for trucks on interstate highways involves a particular matter

If global warming legislation is not a particular matter, then I have not lobbied in this area and can certainly agree to compliance with the EO--the EO itself contemplates that one may be a registered lobbyist and accept a position within the administration so long as I did not lobby EPA. But it cannot be this easy....

Also the definition of lobby is based on the definition of registered lobbyist but in fact the statute that defines registered lobbyist has a definition of lobbying that I need to get and which I have in my contemplation as I analyze this issue. What do you think?

Sorry, I should have explained that too. I've excerpted the relevant definitions from the Executive Order:

(and here it is in a word file for you)

(See attached file:

ExecutiveOrderethicsappointees.doc)

e) "Registered lobbyist or lobbying organization" shall mean a lobbyist or an organization filing a registration pursuant to section 1603(a) of title 2, United States Code, and in the case of an organization filing such a registration, "registered lobbyist" shall include each of the lobbyists identified therein.

(f) "Lobby" and "lobbied" shall mean to act or have acted as a registered lobbyist.

(g) "Particular matter" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 207 of title 18, United States Code, and section 2635.402(b)(3) of title 5, Code of Federal Regulations. That regulation provides:

Particular matter. The term particular matter encompasses only matters that involve deliberation, decision, or action that is focused upon the interests of specific persons, or a discrete and identifiable class of persons. Such a matter is covered by this subpart even if it does not involve formal parties and may include governmental action such as legislation or policy-making that is narrowly focused on the interests of such a discrete and identifiable class of persons. The term particular matter, however, does not extend to the consideration or adoption of broad policy options that are directed to the interests of a large and diverse group of persons. The particular matters covered by this subpart include a judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other determination, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation or arrest.

Example 1: The Internal Revenue Service's amendment of its regulations to change the manner in which depreciation is calculated is not a particular matter, nor is the Social Security Administration's consideration of changes to its appeal procedures for disability claimants.

Example 2: Consideration by the Interstate Commerce Commission of regulations establishing safety standards for trucks on interstate highways involves a particular matter

Thanks very much. What is the definition of "particular matter?"

Hi (b) (6),
Here's the language from the ethics pledge that will need to be resolved:

3. Revolving Door Ban Lobbyists Entering Government. If I was a registered lobbyist within the 2 years before the date of my appointment, in addition to abiding by the limitations of paragraph 2, I will not for a period of 2 years after the date of my appointment:

(a) participate in any particular matter on which I lobbied within the
2 years before the date of my appointment;

(b) participate in the specific issue area in which that particular matter falls; or

(c) seek or accept employment with any executive agency that I lobbied within the 2 years before the date of my appointment.

As I understand the situation, you are a registered lobbyist. The question will be if you did actually "lobby" at any time on behalf of NRDC. If so, then you will have a two year restriction against participating in any particular matter in which you lobbied for the past two years, and cannot participate even work on the specific issue area. Moreover, if you lobbied EPA in the past 2 years, you can't come to work here (unless you get a waiver).

So, we should at some point get better clarification on whether you lobbied at all, on what, and before whom.
